Waiver of Claim for Damages

As with any event involving animals, there is the potential for injury. We will endeavor to conduct this event in as safe a manner as possible; however, the Inland Northwest Llama Association, Pack Llama Trial Association, Backcountry Llama Association, Rattlesnake Ridge Ranch, Pomeroy Ranger District or the program presenters cannot be held liable for any injuries that may result. Please have each attendee sign the waiver below. If attendee is under 18, please have parent or guardian sign for them. I understand that neither the Inland Northwest Llama Association, its officers and directors, event instructors, nor the property owners accept any responsibility for accidents, damage, injury or illness to the llamas, instructors, attendees, or their property. I hereby expressly agree to hold the above-mentioned persons and organizations harmless for any and all risks of injury or loss, whether or not such claim, injury or loss resulted, either directly or indirectly, from the negligent acts or omissions of event organizers.

What to Bring

Picnic tables are available but please bring a comfortable chair and your own camping gear including food (for both in camp and on the trail). Dutch oven main dish and dessert will be provided Friday night and hearty breakfasts will be provided onsite by 4H volunteers accepting donation (bring cash) as a 4H fundraiser. Be prepared to share a favorite on-the-pack-trail dish (or side dish) and recipe(s) for Saturday evening's potluck – enough to serve several people. Multiple submissions are welcome. It's not a bad idea to label your culinary masterpiece or even have recipes printed for handout. Llama pack gear is required for PLTA pack trials and optional for the poker run. Tenters bring a good ground pad or cot. Hand washing facilities are limited, so sanitary wipes, etc., are recommended. Toilet paper is provided but can run out with large groups. The daytime weather is likely to be in the 70's with lots of sunshine, so bring your cameras, sunscreen, hats, and sunglasses. It can be breezy and it may cool down to 40F at night, so warm clothing is recommended. Hay or pellets for llamas to eat (forage is limited). Water buckets (water is spring fed – people routinely drink this water directly from the spring but you should bring your filter anyway). Bring your GPS, maps and compass. If bringing an RV, there is a Chevron service station near the intersection of Main and 4th in Dayton (at the turn to Godman) with an outdoor potable water faucet that can be used for filling your water tank via hose.

Registration Fees

Costs are $30 per adult for the entire weekend. Kids ages 12-18 are $15 for the weekend. Family rate (two adults + one or more kids) $75. Kids under 12 are free. Fees cover prizes, food, attendance and participation in all non-PLTA events. Registration fees need to be received by Saturday, 15 April 2006. After that date fees increase to $35 for adults and $20 for 12-18. Those wishing to stay Sunday night (or arrive early) may at no additional cost.

Participation in the official PLTA pack trial requires membership in the Pack Llama Trial Association ($30/yr). Annual membership is handled directly with the PLTA but can be submitted at this event. If participating in the PLTA Pack Trial, llama registration is $10 (one time fee to register the llama with the PLTA, if not already registered). Pack Trial registration is $10 per llama.

Please make checks payable to: c/o Rattlesnake Ridge Ranch; 350 Tracie Road; Pasco, WA 99301-8895.
